Re-shaping States, Identities and Cultures: Dynamic History Teaching and Learning in Border Regions

Are you interested in history?

Are you curious about learning and teaching of history?

Do you wish to meet students from all over Europe to discuss these topics?

The programme combines innovative virtual and in-person ways of teaching and learning to explore the topic of history education. Participants will reflect on different experiences of teaching and learning approaches, which will be of benefit in their future careers as scholars, teachers or education workers. It will also help them understand the influences that shaped their countries, identities and cultures. An online learning platform MTeams with resources will be made available to the participants throughout the digital phase of the course.
